Royal Comfort.—The British papers inform us, that at the late levee at Edinburgh, the King kissed not less than a thousand ladies, old and young.

Destructiveness of Mice.—The Journal des De-bats says, "The department of the Lower Rhine has been for the last four months afflicted with a scourge which has thrown the inhabitants into the utmost consternation, and reduced them to a situation truly deplorable. The sufferings of this district have arisen from the incredible ravages of mice! The arrondissements of Saverne and Strasburg have been most exposed to their depredations.
Those destructive animals have been multiplied there to such a degree that in the district of Saverne 1,570,000 have been taken in a fortnight, and nearly as many have perished in their holes.
The crops have been nearly destroyed in many communes; and the potatoes, the last resource of cultivation, are now attacked and threatened with destruction. What the mice have spared has been carried away by hailstorms. On the 23d, a dreadful storm burst over the town and environs of Strasburg, especially over the districts of Marienheim and Dappenheim, where the crops were almost entirely destroyed and the loss is estimated at 500,000 francs."

A Liverpool paper states that the Caledo-

Curious Wedding.—Yesterday sc'night, a man dressed like a cobbler, tapped at the door of Stonehouse Chapel, and inquired of the clerk, (who was in attendance with the minister,) if a woman had been there. On being told that one had been seen going into the chapel yard with a basket, he proceeded thither and found her seated near a tombstone. He immediately began to divest himself of his tarry covering, and she of her outer garments, when they both appeared neatly dressed before the minister at the altar, and were married.
They afterwards returned to the tomb-stone, resumed their former apparel, and departed separately as they came in.—Plymouth Eng. Telegraph.

Marlborough-street.—A fat elderly lady complained of a most outrageous assault committed on her by another lady of the sister country with hammer and fists.

The complainant occupied an apartment, which was only separated by a thin partition from the prisoner's, and the latter perceiving daylight peeping through one or two holes in the wainscot, decided to watch the movements of the complainant, and it so happened that both the fair ones went to peep through the same hole at the same time. The prisoner, vexed at the curiosity of her next room neighbor, armed herself with a hammer, determined to make her pay for peeping, and bel-loured the head and shoulders of the complainant so lustily that she began to be in alarm for her life.
The magistrate advised the parties to bug up the holes on both sides, and settle the matter amicably between the inbites, for which purpose they ret-ered into the passage.

A young woman about 19 years of age, who lives in the capacity of housemaid with a respectable old lady residing near Kennington common, on being informed of the marriage of a young man, (which took place on Saturday last) who had formerly lived as a footman in the family, and had paid his addresses to her, she instantly ran down to the bottom of the garden, and jumped into a large water butt, kept there for the purpose of watering the garden; but dishing her situation, she soon began to scream for assistance, and her master's slaves to the following situation, with no other injury than a good ducking.

The above articles will be sold on reasonable terms. Prompt attention will be paid to all orders which he may be favoured with, and packed in the most careful manner.

Extract of the old Volcano of Eyafeld Jokkul, in Iceland, in December, 1821.

INTERESTING.

ERUPTION of the old Volcano of Eyafeld Jokkul, in Iceland, in December, 1821.

The remarkable fall of the barometer, which took place almost simultaneously throughout all Europe, on the 26th of December, 1821, and which in some cases was accompanied with an agitation of the magnetic needle, induced many persons to conjecture that some tremendous convulsion of nature must have visited some part of the globe.
This conjecture has at least been verified by a volcanic eruption of the old volcano of Eyafeld Jok-kul, which has been in a quiet state since the year 1812.

This mountain, otherwise called Mount Hecla, is about 3656 feet in height, and is the southernmost of the chain, where the dreadful eruption broke out about the middle of the last century.

On the 19th December, 1821, the eruption began. The crater was formed at the distance of five miles from the minister's house at Holt, and discharged itself through the thick mass of ice that enveloped it, and which it seldom melted.
The ice was dispersed in every direction, and a mass, 18 feet high, and 60 in circumference, fell towards the north. A number of stones of different sizes, rolled down the mountain, accompanied with a noise like thunder; and this was immediately followed by a discharge of an enormous and lofty mountain of flame, which illuminated the whole country, and allowed the people at Holt to read as perfectly in their houses at night as if it had been day. Ashes, stones, gravel, and heavy masses of rock, some of which weighed about 50 lbs. were thrown up, and one of these last found at the distance of five miles from the crater. On the day immediately following the eruption, a great quantity of fine greyish-white powder and pumice was discharged, and carried about by the wind so as to fall like snow, through every opening. It exhales a disagreeable smell of sulphur, brought on affections in the eyes, and occasioned diseases among the sheep in Vester Eyafeld and Oster Lund.

On the 25th of December, a violent storm raged from the south, and by the united action of the wind and rain, the fields were cleared of the sulphureous dust, which had covered them. On the 26th and 27th of December, there was a heavy storm from the north-east, and the barometer, which had been gradually falling since the 18th of December, when it was 29° 16', had reached, on the 23d the lowest point at 28° 49'. It is a curious fact, however, that on the 8th of February the barometer fell to 27° 25', a time when no earthquake was felt, and no apparent change had taken place in the eruption. On the 13th of February, the barometer, which had been at 29° 42, on the 11th fell to 28° 72. So late as the 23d of February, the Eyafeld Jokkul emitted smoke greatly resembling the steam of boiling water; and some persons were of opinion that the mountain had decreased, and was lower near the crater, as it evidently appeared to be when viewed in a direction from north to south.

It is stated that the water in the rivers that flow from the Jokkul and the surrounding mountains, had been considerably enlarged during the first day's eruption. A constant rumbling noise was heard in the vicinity of the volcano, attended occasionally by a dreadful crash, as if the immense masses of stones and ice were on the eve of being precipitated down the mountain.

Two other volcanoes to the east, in the mountains of Kolla and Ornefa Jokkul, are said to have broken out, but no certain information had been received on the subject.

The vessel which brought the account of the volcanic eruption to Copenhagen, left Iceland on the 7th March; and it is reported that the sailors when at sea, again saw a violent fire in the direction of the volcano.

The Emperor of Austria has confirmed the sentence of death pronounced by the Special tribunal

The Paris Journal des Debats (ministerial paper) states that whatever may be the course and issue of affairs in Spain, it can undertake to affirm that a passage through France will not be granted to foreign troops in any case.

On the 29th of August, a Mr. Chissold of London, reached the top of Mont Blanc in Switzerland, and returned the same day to the hamlet of Chamonix, with his six guides, without accident. At the elevation of 23000 toises, Hermitage wine froze in a well corked bottle.

The prefect of Paris issued on the 11th Sept. an ordinance placing under special supervision (surveillance particulière) all individuals who shall sing songs or play on instruments in the streets of public walks, and prescribing the terms on which they are permitted to exercise their profession.

The traveller Belzoni, was exhibiting his tombs in Paris, in September.

The widow of the celebrated Condorcet, a sister of Marshal Grouchy, died in Paris on the 13th September. It is remarked in the Paris paper, that she was, perhaps, the handsomest woman of her day and certainly one of the most witty and amiable.

By a singular regulation, the government couriers in Austria are ordered, when they are charged with despatches sealed with only one seal, to go at a walking pace; if with two seals, to trot; and if with three, to gallop. A courier, bearing a despatch with three seals, passing lately through a garrison town, was requested by the commandant to take a despatch to the next town, to which he willingly agreed; but perceiving, when he received it, that it had but one seal, he refused to take charge of it, saying, "the regulations ordered him to walk his horse with such a despatch; and as he had another, with which he was ordered to gallop, he could not possibly take them both."

AGRICULTURE.—This great and useful science is rapidly improving both in theory and practice. The provisions which were enacted at the last meeting of the Pennsylvania legislature, for the purpose of promoting improvements in the breed of cattle and articles of husbandry, have had the most favourable effect. Throughout the state, a noble spirit of emulation prevades all classes of Farmers. Should this disposition continue, and we see no reason to doubt that it will not, it must eventuate in placing them, and their internal resources, upon a footing with the first agricultors of any other state in the union.
Necessary arrangements are making by the Philadelphia Agricultural Society, preparatory to an exhibition which will be held early next season, similar to that given in June last. Those who are inclined to exhibit for premiums have ample time to prepare for the occasion—and they would do well not to neglect it.

COMMUNICATION.

MESSRS. EDITORS.—I was much gratified in perceiving in your last number, proposals for the publication of a work to incorporate the principles of the government of the United States, into the education of our American youth.

The want of a work of this kind, has hitherto obliged teachers to give verbal instructions to their pupils on this subject, so intimately connected with the existence of this nation as an independent republic: those instructions not being systematically presented to the eye, and made the subject of scientific research, have been no sooner given than

PRESIDENT MONROE.

The following is given as the true account of which president Monroe appears in story of our country. Born in Virginia, in 1759, was in the army in 1776, and in the battle of Trenton, Dec. 26, 1776.

At Washington then gave him a captain's commission to a regiment. In 1783, he was a colonel of a regiment, and in 1783, a member of the legislature of Virginia, and in 1783, a member of the congress. In 1787 he was again in the legislature of Virginia, and in 1788, in the congress, on which ratified the constitution. In 1790 he was a senator of the United States. In 1793 he was minister of the United States in France, from which place he was recalled by Geo. Washington as a "vindication" of his conduct, and not long afterwards elected governor of Virginia, and continued as long as the constitution was not allowed. In 1802 he was sent by Monroe to France, on the negotiation for Mon-roe's appointment as Minister of Foreign Affairs.

In 1803 he was appointed Minister of For-ign Affairs, and in 1810 was governor of Virginia, and in 1816 was secretary of state, and in 1816 was

THE OLLIO.

"Variety's the very spice of life, That gives it all its flavor."

PIGRAM.

"Life's a jest," but Gay himself must own, A sadder jest, on earth, was never known—The sides of heaven must split to see such fun; Terrors ended, and in tears begun—Lo! there a wretch, extended on the rack, See his veins spout, and hear his sinews crack,
And, if a keener jest is your desire, Go take his place, and laugh till you expire.

"Silence! keep silence in the court!" said an angry judge one day, "why will you not keep silence? Here we have judged a dozen cases this morning, and have not heard a word of one of them."

A person on meeting a friend congratulated him on his lately coming into possession of a landed estate—"There was such a report," replied the other, "but you may rest assured it was groundless."

Mr. S. a taylor, having eloped with Mrs. P. the wife of a barber, a person wondered what attractions she possessed to draw the taylor so powerfully towards her. "Surely," says a wag present, "it is very easy to account for the junction of the needle with the pole."

Dumoulin, the famous French physician, at his death observed, that he left behind him two famous physicians: upon being asked who they were, he replied, regimen and river water.

The Human Hair.—Many singular qualities are attached to the human hair. We do not know whether the electric fluid dwells about it, but Cardan, Scaliger and others have avouched that sparks have fallen from ladies heads while combing their hair. But surely there is no wonder that the fair sex should attract sparks.

Concupiscent Affection.—Mr. N. was waked in the night, and told that his wife was dead. He turned round to sleep again, saying, "Oh! how grieved I shall be in the morning when I awake!"

Bor Mot.—A fellow being brought to the bar some time ago, to answer for a misdemeanor, told his prosecutor, that he could convict him of being both a thief and a murderer!—Upon being required to prove his assertion, "Why," said he, "you ugly villain, you killed a monkey and stole his countenance."

When the French first settled on the banks of St. Lawrence, they were stinted by the intendant, Monsieur Picard, to a can of spruce beer a day. The people thought this measure very scant, and every moment articulated, Can-a-day. It would be ungenerous in any reader to desire a more rational derivation of the word Canada.

A Sailor's description of Hunting.—Going to see my father the other day, he ax'd me to take a voyage a hunting with him. So when the swabber had rigged the horses they brought me one to stow myself on board of—one that they told me was in such right trim, she would go as fast on any tack as a Falkstone cutter. So I got aloft, and clapt myself athwart ship and made as much way as any 'em; and to the windward of a gravel pit we spied a hare at anchor; so weighed and bore away, and just as I had overtaken her my horse came ashore upon rock—the back-stay broke—she pitched me over the fore-castle, came keel upwards, and unshipped my shoulder; and hang me if ever I sail on land privateering again.

Impromptu—in imitation of Moore.

Is there a tongue that never lied?
Is there an eye that never blink'd?
Is there a man that never drink'd?

Must tell a most confounded lie.

JOLDRIDGE begs leave to inform the inhabitants of the United States and elsewhere, that he has discovered, by the power of chemistry, the grand desideratum of preventing the hair from falling off, in the short space of FORTY-EIGHT HOURS after the first application.

This Balm will also restore hair on bald places, and speedily cure the dandruff. He now considers it altogether useless to continue to give signatures, its utility being universally known in Philadelphia, and hundreds are at this time receiving their hair again. J. O. begs leave to return thanks to the generous Americans, for the liberal encouragement bestowed upon his expeditious restorative since its first discovery, and hopes to merit a continuation of their favours. Prepared and sold at one dollar per bottle, and half bottle 50 cents, at No. 55th South Front street, and at No. 11 North Fourth street, Philadelphia, by

Dancing School Removed,
From the corner of Seventh and Chestnut streets to

No. 62nd SOUTH FOURTH STREET,

Third door below Library street.

A. BONNAFON is happy in announcing to his friends and the public, that owing to their very liberal patronage, he has been induced to remove to the above room, being more spacious than his former. The expences to which he has been, in altering and repairing, so as to render it both elegant and comfortable, together with the situation, will combine to render this room much more preferable than his former, and perhaps more so than any in this city.

He will there open his Dancing School on Monday the 30th inst. and continue to teach on the same method as heretofore; the advantages of which he believes has been fully tested by the rapid improvement of his pupils. He proposes having Cotillion Parties, to which his scholars will be admitted without extra charges—to commence in the beginning of December next, by which time beginners will be able to participate in the amusements they afford, as also in a collection of the newest Fancy and characteristic dances and cotillions, obtained from a teacher of New-York, recently from Europe.

For terms and hours of tuition, apply at the room, or his dwelling, No. 100 Union Street, a few doors below Fourth-street.

Days of Tuition, at the room, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. The other three days of the week devoted to Seminaries and Private Families, as usual.
